THE SAGA.....

Way back in the 40's, before the advent of the I Pod and cell phone and possibly even before black & white T.V., it is rumored that a bunch of local's decided that they needed an official place to call their own, a place where they could park their steed and hang their hat after a hard day's work. And so it came to be, that after some long pondering and probably some libation, they decided to name this very place the "Saddle Club".

Then in mid-late 40's, The Saddle Club passed over its "reins" to two WWII vets/friends as they took over the establishment and named it the "C&C Tavern". Eventually, "The Hillsboro Tavern" became the name of choice, as it has become a popular fixture located on the top of the hill in Mingo Junction, Ohio.

Anyway, that's all past history....
 In 2001, "The Hillsboro Tavern" added Grill to its name to emphasize the superb food along with maintaining the great reputation of the past, one which has made the Hillsboro Grill & Tavern one of America's great neighborhood establishments.
